The North Saskatchewan River dominates the geography of Edmonton. Winding, meandering, flowing, the River satisfies both a functional and aesthetic need.

Its quiet but dominant presence on the west boundary of McNally's campus is a reminder of the importance of the River to our city. Beautiful and powerful, it is a special force in the lives of all of us. From earliest times it was a source of communication, transportation, sustenance. Today it is a source of power, drinking water, recreation and changing visual delights.

The River is exciting, a special feature in the vast landscape of this earth; from humble beginnings, often just a trickle, it gathers volume and speed until it ultimately spends itself in a sacrificial emptying into another river, or a lake, or finally the sea.

Tumbling, winding, surging, heaving, charging relentlessly, it has what man most respects and longs for in his own life and thought — a capacity for renewal and replenishment, abundant energy, creativity and cleansing.

School days are a sort of river of passing events, no sooner is a thing brought to sight than it is swept away and another takes its place, and this too will be swept away . . . but the experiences and the memories will live forever.

MCNALLY, like the River, is an important place . . .

A PLACE IN OUR LIVES

McNally, like the river, and like paths is there to be explored and enjoyed . . . casually or fully . . . but it is there. Inescapable . . . For the major part of three years it dominates our lives. It can be overwhelming in its influence or it can be subtle and gentle, And even though we leave, when our time comes, it will always be a place in our lives.

A PLACE OF EXPERIENCE

It is impossible to be part of the stream and not be affected by the myriad daily happenings of an active high school . . . happenings which enlarge our appreciation for living . . . happenings which enable us to enjoy the physical world.

A PLACE OF FUN

There are two ingredients that, more than anything else, enrich and facilitate life at school — friendship and laughter. These are the years when we strengthen old friendships and form new ones. Laughter helps us to maintain our perspective and to relieve the tensions which inevitably harass all of us some of the time.

A PLACE OF INVOLVEMENT

Every year the Grad Council hosts the most successful event of the year — the Pancake Breakfast. Staff, students and visiting celebrities pitch in to feed hundreds of hungry people on the last morning of school before Christmas . . . and do you know something? The pancakes were actually edible this time around . . . possible because Miss Edmonton and some of the Eskimos added their magic to the ingredients.

A PLACE OF QUIETNESS

When the cacophany of noise and activities has subsided for the day, there settles down this modular jumble, of glass and concrete a silence that is truly magnificent. Only the patchwork of lights from the city skyline and the ubiquitous light standards invade the stillness, while the entire campus recycles itself and catches its breath for the onslaught of bodies at seven-thirty the next morning.

A PLACE OF BEAUTY

You can almost feel the awesome beauty of the river valley when you stroll along the west fields of the campus. Sometimes the wind sweeps up over the banks driving fog or snow in its path; sometimes the calm makes you breathless; always you are impressed by the spaciousness, the freedom, and the changing atmosphere of this exclusive feature of McNally.

HEADWATERS

Somewhere in the hinterland of each continent, possibly back in the far reaches of a mountain pass, at the foot of some glacier or snow field lies the source of every great river. The beginning stream is usually small, usually a number of streams coming together and picking up more as they made their way to the oceans; and by that time they may be twenty miles or two hundred miles wide at the mouth. For us in Edmonton it all began in 1882 in a one room school house; now one school will contain over 2,000 students and a staff of 150 people.

As a tribute to the institution which overseas education in this city, the next few pages give some interesting insight to our small but significant beginnings.

E.P.S.B. CENTENNIAL

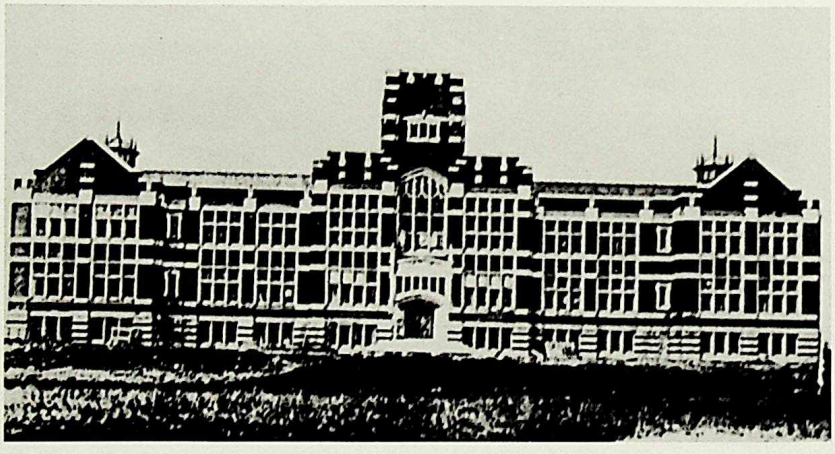
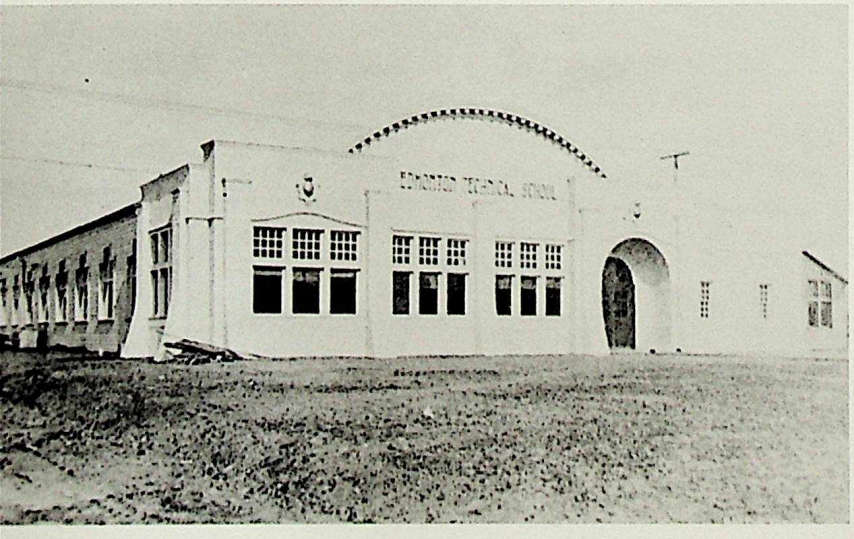
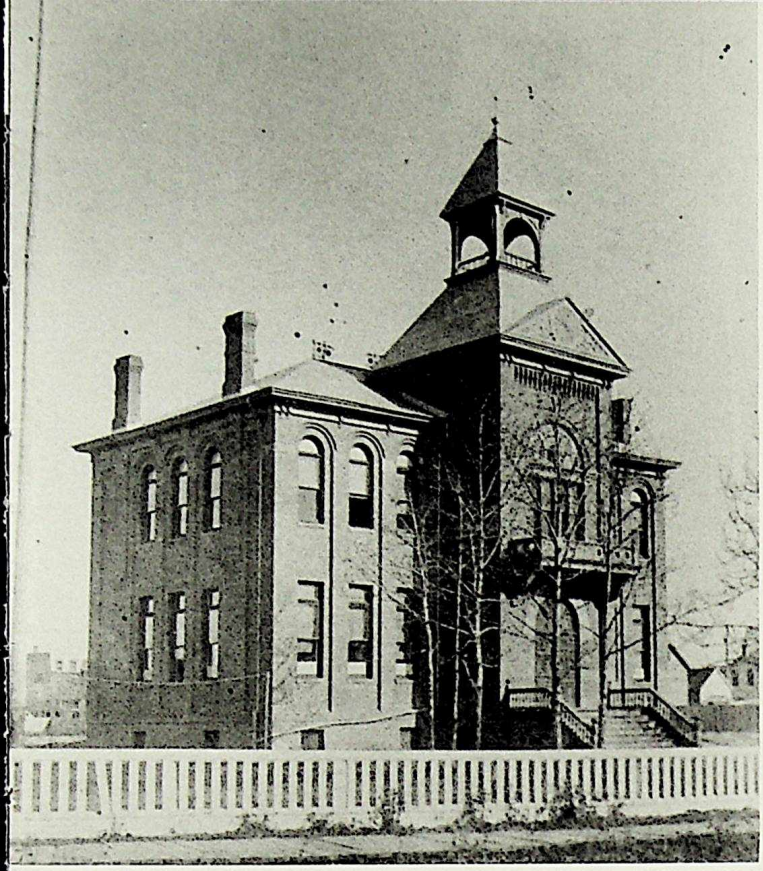
This year marks the one-hundredth anniversary of the Edmonton Public School Board. Although a private school briefly existed in Fort Edmonton in 1840, the first school, constructed in 1881 by concerned parents, began classes January 31, 1882, with 28 students. (Incidentally, this one-room school, originally built at a total cost of $968, is presently being restored for $100,000.) Of these 28 students, ranging in age from 5-17 years, only three were female.

By 1886 the enrollment had risen to 84, but the average daily attendance was only 38 (Miller time at the Rex?)







In 1887, due to an improved economic situation, the school was treated to the first "two-holer" outhouse ever to be constructed for a school in the Edmonton area. Unfortunately, it was blown over the river bank a year later by strong winds, and destroyed. It wasn't the only slightly unstable in our history, either. The Edmonton High School, which was built in 1895, was touted as the most structurally sound building west of Winnipeg. Not long after, it slid into an old mining shaft located beneath it.

Incredible as it may seem, even cafeterias have advanced since their introduction in 1914. The McAuley and Alexander Taylor schools provided hot milk and buttered bread for lunch. Nevertheless, one couldn't complain about the price — two cents for a mug of milk, and one cent per slice of bread. Water fountains are also a fairly recent development — before, all they had was a copper pail full of water, with separate tin cups for the boys and the girls. The pail was filled each morning by a guy who made the rounds in a wagon stocked with water barrels.

The architecture of schools changes dramatically over the years. Witness these photos on this and on the next two pages. Top left is Edmonton's first school where it presently sits in the river valley. It is now being remodelled to resemble its former self. Opposite middle is the John A. McDougall Commercial High School which opened in 1912. Its first principal, Percy Page, coached the world-famous Edmonton Grads basketball team from this school. Bottom left is the Edmonton Technical School. Top center is the old Collegiate Avenue School; above right is the Edmonton High School, built in 1910-11 and later named Victoria High School. The large picture in the center is the Strathcona Collegiate Institute when it was first constructed. It is now Old Scona.

Teachers themselves have made significant inroads since 1882. James Harris, the very first teacher, was paid $50 per month. One teacher was actually dismissed for requesting a $5 pay raise! The teachers did their job in spite of a chronic shortage of maps, globes, books, and chalk (well, maybe things haven't changed all that much after all!) Nevertheless, many teachers did not let it affect them, such as Robina McMillan, of Oliver School, who taught for a total of 43 years. Or Helen Raver, who taught from 1922 to 1964. Some, however, weren't quite so hardy. One of the first superintendents got sick and died only six weeks after signing his ten-year contract. (Incidentally, he was a member of the Ku Klux Klan.)

The rich and diverse styles of Edmonton's schools can be seen on this page and next. Clockwise from top left; Alexander Taylor School, Bennet School, which is now an outdoor education center of the school board. Located in the Cloverdale community, it was one of the first schools to service what is now the McNally territory. Below is the Garneau School after it was first opened and as it stands now, bottom. On the lower left is the Donald Ross School which saw new life recently during the Commonwealth Games, acting as the headquarters for the Games.

Indeed, our school system has made great progress in 100 years. Today we have computer word processors instead of dictation, $50,000 language labs to help us with our grammar, as well as a whole array of advanced academic and vocational courses that previously wouldn't have been taught until university. School facilities have improved, and the staff are better prepared through specialization. Nevertheless, the purpose of schools has remained constant since, not only the beginning of our school system 100 years ago, but from the earliest Greek and Roman centers of training. It is to prepare individuals to meet the challenges of life by implanting within the students certain skills and abilities that will enable them not only to enjoy life, but to make the world a little bit more enjoyable for everyone else.

From top left to right, three more schools, still in use, show more of the character and uniqueness of some of Edmonton's landmarks. They are Eastglen, Norwood, and McKay Avenue. This latter is on the site to which the first school will be returned and renovated as part of the centennial celebration of the Board. Unlike the commercial interests in Edmonton who tear down anything of historical value, the Public School Board is to be commended for its foresight in preserving so many of the elegant and distinctive buildings which have served the citizens of this city for the last century.

Our own school, McNally is an example of the more contemporary style that exists today. One of the smallest high schools in the city, it serves about 900 students, but what it loses in size, it more than makes up for in quality of students and staff. And its location is second to none in Canada.

TRIBUTARIES

Tributaries emptying into the mainstream of a river are essentially the elements that compose the river itself. One tributary which is particularly important to McNally is the faculty, composed of teachers, custodians, and maintenance workers. The individual teachers, with their different methods and varied personalities, add a human dimension to the classroom, through which they contribute of their knowledge and experience to students.

Administration

The school year depicted in the book is one that I will always look on with fond memories.

The students and staff at McNally can justifiably feel proud of the individual and group athletic, artistic and curricular accomplishments that have highlighted the year. The extent and quality of the activities available to McNally students have been outstanding. The Trend provides visual documentation of many of the best moments so that you can share treasured memories with friends and family.

The dedication to excellence that characterizes the McNally spirit, I am confident, will be evident in the 1982 Trend. May that spirit continue to grow of McNally and in the lives of all students.

WATERFALLS

There are two perspectives from which one can view a waterfall: from the sheltered environment of the shore, or from the bow of a boat about to encounter it. Similarly, one can simply observe as a spectator in relation to clubs and sports, or else one can get actively involved. The thrill and excitement of competition may be temporarily marred by defeat or loss, but the memory of the struggle endures.

There were good indications that the Senior football team would have a good season as they won their first two games. However, their success slumped, and they ended the season with a 3-5 record. The scores were close, however: on four opportunities, the game was lost in the final moments of the last quarter. The Tigers were the first senior football team at McNally since 1979.

JUNIOR FOOTBALL

The year basically could be described as a developmental one for Junior Football at McNally. Potential was quite evident throughout the year, leading to the hope of a more successful season in 1982. A tough 10-6 play-off loss to MacDonald ended the year, and though victory was not attained, the desire and "heart" shown by the players on the Junior Tigers in that game, and throughout the year, was an encouragement to all involved with the team. We look forward to next year.

They won the U of A Invitational, The Grant MacEwan Invitational, Clinched the Senior girls' premier city championship, and beat out all competition to take the provincial championships. All the players are (hopefully) graduating this year.

SENIOR BOYS' VOLLEYBALL

The Senior Boys' volleyball team had a successful season which saw them clinch the city championship in the premier league. They then moved into the provincial championships and, after several intense games, emerged in third place.

The senior Boys won first in the 'C' division, second place in the city's, captured second place in the 'C' event in the Provincial High School Championships held in Calgary, and they also won second in the 'B' event at the School Boys' Christmas Bonspiel. The senior girls also did their fair share by winning first in the 'A' event, second place in the city's, and pulled off fourth place in the 'C' event at the Provincials. The junior girls' team won second in the 'B' event, and what can we say about the junior boys? . . . well, they tried hard!

SENIOR GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The senior girls' basketball team had quite a good season this year. They placed first in the CAPHER tournament as well as second in the Grant MacEwan tournament. They were the city champions, and then went on to the provincial finals. The team itself consisted of four rookies and eight veterans, and the fact that they were all tall certainly contributed to their success.

SENIOR BOYS' SOCCER

McNally's senior boys soccer team did not have a particularily exemplary season this year, as reflected by their 3-4-3 record, due in part to the many injuries suffered. Nevertheless, they moved up from the city's 4th division to the 5th spot in the 3rd division. They lost by a score of 2-1 to the Queen E. team in the quarter finals.

SENIOR GIRLS' SOCCER

When the Senior girls' soccer team kicked off their season, they had good reasons to be optimistic. After all, for the past two years they had clinched the championship in their premier division. However, after a 6-2-2 season, in third place in their division, they bowed out in the quarter finals. Nevertheless, much of the excellent team spirit and cooperation displayed during the previous two seasons was still evident, to the last game.

TRACK AND FIELD

This year McNally students were again able to demonstrate their ability in track and field events. Throughout the season they performed well in the city meets, and followed this up by placing second overall in the city finals. Continuing on to the provincials, McNally athletes helped Edmonton to a second place finish overall. Athletes from previous years continued to develop their abilities, and new students offered potential for the coming year.

Another torrid year is down the tube . . . er river, and it had all the classic yearbook crises: changing staff, missing pictures, rotten darkroom chemicals, impending deadlines, extended deadlines, disregarded deadlines, and so on. But it also had the usual moments of wit, chicanery, inspiration, and sacrifice. We hope you like the result.

HIKING CLUB

During the course of the year, the hiking club met twice a month to view slide presentations of previous hikes to the Rockies, listen to guest speakers, and view topographical maps.

Students with a keen interest in backpacking, the mountains, nature, and wild surroundings make up the hiking club. Each year the club goes on two hikes. In the fall to Elk Island Park for the day, and the major three-day spring hike to the mountains. This year we visited Maligne Canyon, Athabasca Falls, an arduous trail to three lakes (Dorothy, Virl, and Christine), and stayed in Whirlpool Campsite in Jasper National Park.

New friends were made with fellow students and the teacher advisors (they turn into wild animals in the woods).

This year was one of exploration and experimentation for the Drama club. Deep and meaningful questions were asked, such as "Can the dimmer panel last through one more show?" Besides forming a dance group, they also put on several productions, in which the topics ranged from outer space to inner space. They were "Flight One. Destination: The Future", "Postcards", "The Big Black Box", and "Werewolf."

NEWSPAPER CLUB

The Paper Tiger, The McNally Times, The McNally Tiger, and lately, The McNally Tyger are all names under which the school newspaper has operated. The function of our newspaper is to tell what's happening around the school, and to provide a medium for students to express themselves. About half a dozen issues were published this year.

RADIO CLUB

The members of the radio club, Dale Dorosh, Bob Stagg, and Barry Zuk, leave us with these immortal worlds:
"Step into my egg room
There's music flowing through the love tubes".
— Joe Rosenblatt

APATHY CLUB

The Apathy Club was by far the largest single organization in the school this year, comprising almost the entire student populace. Although no one was formally required to sign up or pay dues, nevertheless members were added every day. The club distinguished itself by doing absolutely nothing all year. Incidentally, no club photo could be taken because no one could be bothered to show up.

ELECTRONICS CLUB

The Electronics clubs was made up of forty one students with an interest in computers, be it programming or playing games, or building and testing circuits using the lab's facilities. The club was able to purchase additional equipment with the membership fees that were collected.

The Creative Writing Club reappeared after a long absence from the school scene. The main showcase for school writing this year was the illustrated poetry magazine, To Cast a Spell, which was eagerly snapped up by the students. Next year there will be opportunities for creative writers in the newspaper, yearbook, and another magazine.

CURRENT

One of the aspects that distinguishes a river from a lake or a pond is the fact that a river has a current. This current makes it come alive, enduing it with a dynamic, restless quality, maintaining constant motion and newness. As a parallel, organized events and activities within a school serve to motivate and mobilize students, and give them an opportunity to get involved in a group effort.

FROSH

Soft footsteps and muffled snickers. All of a sudden, FFFFFFFFTT! Then, "Eeeh! Oh, gross!" What you have just witnessed is a strictly illicit act, yet one which contributes to the fun and excitement of Frosh Week. An opportunity to create school spirit at the beginning of the year, it offers new students an opportunity to see things and people in a different light. Activities included watermelon seed spitting, tugs of war, donut eating, and sponge throws.

HALLOWEEN

There is something about Halloween that lets people forget their inhibitions and dress up creatively. Only then can you really get away with walking down the hall or into a class dressed as a pig, Broadway showgirl, surgeon, camouflaged G.I., fairy, or executioner, without drawing too many stares or comments, Besides the fun of thinking up a costume, other events included a sockhop and a best-dressed contest, which the Siamese twins won.

INVITATIONAL VOLLEYBALL TOURNAMENT

Early in the school year, McNally hosted an invitational volleyball tournament. A total of 16 teams, representing several western provinces, entered this competition. From the eight men's teams, the Lord Selkirk Royals emerged winners, while Lorette Collegiate captured the women's title. Both these teams were from Manitoba.

CHRISTMAS LIT

The Christmas Lit was a great way to end the '81 school year. Although the progam wasn't as long as in previous years, it was still well done. The acts included a "Spanish" dancer, music, and a pretty awful skit performed by the teachers. And of course, the jolly (football-player-sized) Santa Claus also made his appearance, to give credibility to the whole event.

HAWAIIAN DAYS

In an attempt to dispel the −40 degree blahs, the Student's Union hosted a Hawaiian Day. You could see people strolling leisurely down the halls wearing towels, sunglasses, and an assortment of other beach attire. In one notable case, one brave person paraded around all day in nothing but a pair of shorts. Besides attracting lots of stares, certain students were awarded with prizes (coconuts and pineapples) for the best costume, the best legs, and the best hula dance. Speaking of which, were those two grass-skirted dancers for real?

OPEN HOUSE

March 23 was the day that zillions of junior high school munchkins all across the city descended upon McNally in hordes: McNally Open House! Interested parents and students paraded down halls, through classrooms, around displays, and under signs offering discombobulating directions and information. The Grad Bake Sale, which just happened to coincide with that day, was a huge success. Various school clubs, organization, and faculties set up displays to show the visitors that McNally is more than reading and writing and arithmetic.

ALUMNI NIGHT

Alumni events allow people who couldn't wait to get out of school to meet and reminisce about all the good times they had. During one of the tutorials, a few students from yesteryear put on a gymnastic presentation, as well as playing a basketball game against the '82 Tigers. Later, that evening, there was a much larger reunion at the Golden Garter.

PAPER AIRPLANE CONTEST

The Industrial Education Department sponsored a first-ever contest to determine who could build McNally's Most Magnificent Flying Machines. The entries were judged according to flight duration, acrobatics, decoration, distance covered, and originality. For some unknown reason, an obscure group called "Adminair", walked away with the coveted trophy.

AIR GUITAR CONTEST

Realizing that there is a lot of untapped potential in our school, the Grad Council decided to hold McNally's first-ever Air Guitar Contest. (Of course, there were other reasons, such as raising a few bucks!) They weren't disappointed — it was a success! Several (talented? musical?) students took part, and the audience reacted enthusiastically to the acts.

DANCE-A-THON VI

This year the Students Union again sponsored the sixth annual Dance-a-thon. The idea here was to get people to sponsor you and your partner for the time danced, to a maximum of twelve hours, with all proceeds going to charity. It was a great opportunity to do something worthwhile, have a great time (and, most importantly, to skip a day of classes.)

AWARDS NIGHT

June 2 was McNally's annual awards presentation, in which athletic, academic, arts, and service awards were presented. The highlight of the evening was the presentation of the Cheryl Gibson award for athletic excellence to Barb Broen, and the G. Fred McNally citizenship award to Shelley Watson.

MAINSTREAM

The primary motivation behind any school is to train people to be of service to society, and yet develop their own individuality. Essentially, students are the school — they are the mainstream. Events revolve around them; both parents and teachers contribute their talents and services to them. But it is the enthusiasm and determination on behalf of the students that makes it all come together.

DOWNSTREAM

The end of a river, where it flows into a lake or sea, is radically different from its beginning. Through its tumultuous course it has grown in magnitude and consequently, in its capabilities. In a sense, graduates are the downstream section of the mainstream — they are the part of the river that moves into the sea of life. They are leaving a relatively sheltered environment and entering something new, exciting — and perhaps alien. Nevertheless, finishing high school is an important accomplishment in an individual's development.

GRADUATION EXERCISES

June 12th is the date that (most) grade twelves will remember as their graduation. The Grad Council went to great lengths to make the event memorable. The rendition of the theme song, Time, was remarkably well done by a group of McNally students (one question, though — who was that guitar player in the top hat and sneakers?) The Class History reminded us of the special people in McNally and the crazy things they do. The speakers gave us some helpful insights into the true meaning of life. And then, for comic relief, there was the band that couldn't find their music.

GRADUATION BANQUET AND DANCE

Following the graduation exercises there was a dinner and dance, featuring "Wave", at the Terrace Inn. During the course of the evening the formality wore off as ties were loosened, jackets removed, and shoes slipped off under the table. Spirits flowed freely (in more ways than one). As teachers and students mingled together they saw what each other was like out of their usual roles and moods.
